FIRST ANNUAL DR. MICHAEL D. AMMAZZALORSO PANCREATIC CANCER SYMPOSIUM

OVERVIEW

Pancreatic cancer is the fourth leading cause of cancer death in the United States. The average 5 year survival is 6.7%, which is one of the lowest out of all cancer diagnoses. Pancreatic treatment and management options are constantly evolving to try to increase survival. Physicians along with the inter-professional team are challenged to stay current. This course offers a gathering of clinical experts who will emphasize a multi specialty team based approach to translating scientific knowledge into practice. Planners of this course hope learners will engage the faculty with thoughtful questions and leave with expanded medical knowledge and improved competence that will encourage changes in performance to improve care outcome for their patients.

In April of 2015, Winthrop University Hospital's Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Michael D. Ammazalorso succumbed to pancreatic cancer and we have re-dedicated this important annual CME Symposium in memory of Dr. Ammazalorso's long service to Winthrop University Hospital and the Internal Medicine community.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the end of this Symposium, learners should be able to:

- Apply the most current treatments in pancreatic cancer (both surgical and non-surgical)
- Evaluate surgical approaches in the treatment of pancreatic cancer
- Prescribe more effective neo-adjuvant and adjuvant chemotherapy strategies to treat pancreatic cancer
- Summarize how immune-based strategies can detect pancreatic cancer and how new immunological approaches can treat advanced disease
- Describe future therapies in pancreatic cancer

TARGET AUDIENCE

Oncologists, hematologists, pancreatic surgeons, surgical oncologists, radiation oncologists, gastroenterologists, primary care physicians, nurse practitioners, oncology-surgical nurses, residents and fellows.

COMPETENCIES

THE DR. AMMAZZALORSO PANCREATIC CANCER RESEARCH AND EDUCATION FUND ANNUAL SYMPOSIUM honors the life and work of Dr. Michael D. Ammazalorso, Winthrop-University Hospital's beloved colleague and former Chief Medical Officer. Dr. Ammazalorso was well known at the Hospital for his commitment to patients and medical students, and was a Master of the American College of Physicians. Funded in part by the generosity of contributors to the Fund, the Symposium aims to continue Dr. Ammazalorso's legacy of compassionate education, by engaging physicians, fellows, and medical students with the latest advances in pancreatic cancer research and treatment.

The Dr. Ammazalorso Pancreatic Cancer Research and Education Fund's mission is to support pancreatic cancer research and education at Winthrop, through initiatives like the Symposium. Our hope is to honor Dr. Ammazalorso's deep commitment to medicine by enhancing programs and research relating to pancreatic cancer here at Winthrop.
